

Architects paint for Days of Caring

On October 6, three members of ABA Architects pitched in as part of United Way's Days of Caring. For this year's project (the firm participated last year as well), ABA did some exterior painting of the Desert Spring Children's Center, 740 East Speedway. Senior architect Preston Godfrey, senior architect Roel Krabbendam, and job captain Jo Pederson chipped in with the workload (see photos below).

Monica Brinkerhoff, co-director of the school, said afterward: "Thank you all for your help on Saturday. The church and the families love the paint, and the 'fresh look' has inspired the staff to make other improvements to the school. Every time we walk into the school, we are filled with pride at how it looks! We are so very grateful for all of your time and work!" It was our pleasure, Monica, and ABA Architects hopes to make Days of Caring an annual tradition.
